Title:

CONSTITUTION CHANGE: Extending ExCom office from 1 to 2 years

Subtitle:

Extending the term of office of the iQFOiL Youth & Junior Class Executive Committee from 1 to 2 years

A submission from:

iQFOiL Youth & Junior Executive Committee

Purpose or Objective

Extending the term of office of the iQFOiL Youth & Junior Class Executive Committee from 1 to 2 years can bring about several benefits, including streamlining administrative processes and improving the overall effectiveness of the Executive Committee.

Reduced Transition Period: In a 1-year term, a significant amount of time can be spent on transitioning new members into their roles. With a 2-year term, this transition period is reduced, allowing the ExCom to dive into their work more quickly and efficiently.

Focus on Strategy Implementation: In a 2-year term, the ExCom can dedicate more time to developing and implementing long-term strategies that align with the Class' vision. This strategic focus can lead to more coherent and effective actions over time.

Time for Impactful Projects: Many projects and initiatives take time to plan, execute, and see results. Extending the term to 2 years allows the ExCom to undertake more ambitious and impactful projects that can significantly contribute to the growth and development of the iQFOiL Youth & Junior Class.

Community Engagement: A longer term allows the ExCom to engage more deeply with the iQFOiL community, gathering feedback, and incorporating suggestions into their initiatives. This community-centric approach can lead to more relevant and impactful projects.

Savings in Administrative Formalities: Extending the term to 2 years can result in significant savings in administrative formalities with Swiss institutions, such as the need for frequent elections and paperwork associated with turnover. This reduction in administrative tasks can free up valuable time and resources that can be directed towards the Class' core activities.
